

Great Zimbabwe

Great Zimbabwe was a city in modern-day Zimbabwe, built by the ancestors of the Shona people. It was a center of trade and power in the region for centuries.

1

Stone City

Great Zimbabwe was a sprawling city built entirely of stone, without the use of mortar. Its impressive architecture showcases the advanced skills of its builders.

2

Trade Hub

Great Zimbabwe was a major center of trade, with goods being exchanged throughout Southern Africa and beyond. Gold, ivory, and other valuable items were traded here.

3

Royal Residence

The city was home to a powerful king, who ruled over a vast empire. The royal enclosure, with its majestic towers, served as the king's residence.

Zimbabwe Legacy

Great Zimbabwe is a reminder of the rich history and culture of the Shona people. The ruins offer a glimpse into their advanced civilization and their lasting impact on Southern Africa.

Learn more by playing games at MemoryWizards.com

